

Who-Where-How Spends Your Money?

DIRECTOR OF FINANCE

FRANK ANDERSON
City Manager

Frank C. Anderson joined the City of Belle Glade as Clerk in 1949. He has served as Tax Assessor and Collector, Clerk of the Municipal Court, and is now Director of Finance.

Mr. Anderson is serving also as Acting City Manager until one is chosen, a job he has filled also in the past.

Editor's Note

Now that the City's is a Million-Dollar-a-year business, and is suffering with growing pains, with the necessity of spending our tax dollar, THE HERALD is offering in this series of articles information as to Who, Where and How your tax dollar is spent.

Probably present aches in the midsection will have knowledge of the cause of taxpayers aches.

FEC Pulls Trains From Glades Tracks

Trouble Hotard, Commercial Agent, freight agent, Office Boy and general Factotum for the FEC in the Glades since the union bosses precipitated a strike, announces that trains have been run from the Glades.

The first one pulled out 99 cars, sixty-one being loaded with sugar and molasses that had been stored since the strike.

The purpose of the other train Tuesday, apparently, is to shift cars and return foreign cars to their home line.

It is rumored on the streets here that the Union bosses called this strike without first calling a vote of the membership—a vote was had more than a year ago on the national question, but no vote for the specific offer by the FEC.

Apparently, the offer of Mr. Ball's Boys would have given FEC workmen a bit more than the national settlement by fall of this year.

Rogers Says: Solitary Confinement For Cuba Supervise

Pointing out the Bay of Pigs and the daily contrabandations of just how many Russians are in Cuba and how much military equipment is the defensive on offensive, Rogers says "one soldier with one rifle on the one hand, become defensive or offensive?" He answers his own question, "when the Kremlin orders it so."

The following is the text of remarks made by Congressman Rogers before the House of Representatives Tuesday, February 12.

"Mr. Speaker, Washington is rife with contradictions on the amount of Soviet military equipment in Cuba. Each day new charges on the specific number of Cubans and Communist arms are heaped from the floors of the Congress. Executive agencies are then drawn in to bolster over the quantities of Soviet military equipment, the design of this equipment, Belle Glade was incorporated on April 9th, 1928 with the Mayor-Alderman form of government, where, everybody does everything theoretically.

Later, each commissioner was given charge of one or more departments — to get something done.

In 1946 the Commission-Manager form of government was adopted where the Commission prescribes the policy direction thru ordinances, or majority decision. The City Manager carries out the directions of the Commission and coordinates the several departments to accomplish the directed results.

The first City Manager lasted one year — Sept. 11th of '46 till September 10th of '47.

In January 15th of '54 the second City Manager was appointed and four others have followed: the fifth is being selected out of a list of applicants of some 20-odd, with Frank Anderson, City Finance Officer acting as City Manager.

Belle Glade has grown to a fair sized city today, as shown by population. In 1930 it was 926, in 1940 it was 3,806, in 1950 it was 7,210, in 1960 it was 11,273 and the fifth largest city in Palm Beach County. Today we estimate it at 14,000.

Assessed valuation of Real Property in 1940 was $1,163,195 with a budget of $68,911.07, and 1962 is $23,553,606.00, with a budget of approximately $1,000,000.00.

A breakdown of the current budget is as follows:

GENERAL FUND:
Legislative, Administrative & Judicial, $90,700.97.
General Government Buildings, $18,620.00.
Public Safety, $193,989.63.
Public Works, $257,519.00.
Parks and Recreation, $54,429.70.
Library, $6,560.26.
Cemetery, $14,143.17.

Other - Salary and Wage Additions, $10,000.00.
TOTAL GENERAL FUND, $665,389.23.

Water Revenue Fund, $204,715.14.

Sewer Revenue Fund, $76,380.00.

Franchise Tax Fund $5,324.24.

TOTAL ALL FUNDS, $999,813.47.

Ecuadorian Students Visit Glades Friday

Fourteen students from Guayaquil, Ecuador are making the rounds of Palm Beach County's industry agriculture social and educational life.

M. U. (Red) Mounts, County Agent will have the entire group in the Glades Friday for a tour of the sugar and vegetable operations, as a part of their education.

Frank Wright, Planning Committee, says "usually when these folks come here, they are shown the coast but do not get a real visit with the Glades. Red has taken care of that and Belle Glade Rotary will be host to the group at their regular meeting Friday.

Effie Allen Fund

Organizations and individuals by a self-appointed committee have responded to the suggestion that Mrs. Effie Allen is eligible, deserving and in need of freely given assistance in defraying the daily expense of fighting the ravaging disease of cancer with which she has been confined in the Belle Glade Memorial Hospital for weeks.

"Effie," or "Ma" Allen, as she is widely known, has spent days, and nights, in uncompensated work for the needy of her community, the PTA, the school children, the Red Cross, Heart Fund, Cancer Drive, Mothers March, and whatever a community is called on to assist.

The Legion, and the Auxiliary know Mrs. Allen intimately in the local, District and Department level, as an untiring and effective worker.

The South Bay School, Masonic Lodge, Legion and Forty-and-Eight organizations, PB County Red Cross and many individuals have donated to the fund thru the information given by the Committee: Lawrence Will, Henry Elfers, Mrs. Martha Griffin and Mrs. L. L. Price.

Any other donations will be gratefully received by Mrs. Lawrence Will in care of the Belle Glade Memorial Hospital.

Mrs. Allen's spirit of "I will walk out of here" and her cheerfulness, plus the humble gratitude when she heard of the Fund, is delaying the medical professions pronouncement of the inevitable.

C. D. Hall was "touched" by Judge Matthews for $500 total well as could be expected in the hospital, and Willie is sleeping well in the City Jail facing a charge of attempted murder.

Why, Louella, did you do it? Louella H. Mills, age 36 is a 36 year old woman who figured to make money on the harvest hands of the Glades. Louella got caught selling beauty items without a license and had brought along a few pieces of b-o-o-lita she acquired in West Palm.

The judge was sympathetic—he only fined her $300. When Louella's sentence was published, she sent her friend to her car to secure her pocketbook, which he did. But Louella didn't figure the police would inspect the pocketbook before she was given a resting place in jail—a woman's personal effects!

But a "flat-foot" doing his duty took a peek and found a sub-compact .38 Louella lost her 38 and an additional $100 bond. These country boys "ain't no gentlemen," says Louella!

Two 11-year-olds were caught Tuesday night robbing the telephone booth near Grant's riding the hemphire of all U.S. influence now present in it. The United States MUST exert its leadership.

"It has become clear that a review of U. S. intelligence operations is in order for the security of the American people. Such a review should be conducted by the Congress, where Constitutional authority for regulating and maintaining the armed forces is spelled out in explicit terms."

"In this age of nuclear terror, and a precarious balance of power, prompt and accurate intelligence information is vital."

"Such a committee as suggested here was also recommended by the Hoover Commission, and is long overdue. Certainly the entire Cuban operation indicates the urgency of action now."

Legislative Clinic Here Friday

Representative Emmett Roberts announces that the Palm Beach County Delegation will hold its first clinic Friday, Feb. 15, on Delray Beach and in Belle Glade.

The morning will be given over to Delray beginning at 9:30 and the afternoon to Glades at 1:30 at the Courthouse on the Pahokee-Belle Glade Road, beginning at 2:00 p. m.

All municipalities and individual or groups of citizens are urged to attend and present any legislation they wish.

The Delegation reaffirms its rule of not introducing any local bills affecting Palm Beach County unless the bill has been presented at one of our clinics.

Other clinics will be held at West Palm Beach and at Lake Park, times to be announced.

Fruit Cake Good

Even In February

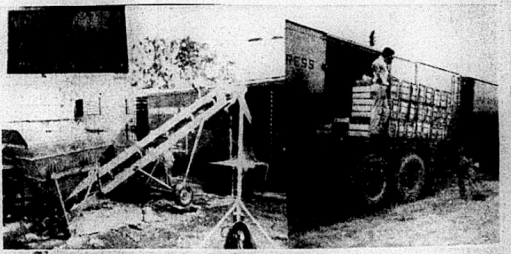

The Belle Glade Civitan Club members personally offered for sale fruit cake during the Christmas Holidays as a source of revenue for their sponsored community activities.

Of the 3,407 pounds brought in for the past holidays, they have some 500 pounds still on hand, which represents any profit they have in the project.

In order to make these funds available for their selected projects — Children's book Section of the Library, Royal Palm School and the Christian Mission to Migrants, the fruit cake is offered by Civitans personally, or at the Everglades Division of Williams and Wallis Pharmacy.

Favor that sweet tooth, and help your Civitans to help worthy causes of the community.

Approach roads and loading driveways were provided by the roller-concrete, hump-backed, winding and inadequate highway U. S. No. 27 has had a bad record for years, and is a traffic hazard. Sugar, fuel, molasses and vegetable trucks "making tracks" for the sidings at Lake Harbor and Clewiston.

Points of origin are Fla. Sugar, nine miles east of Belle Glade, and the Cabinet in Washington is induced to make a train trip from the Glades to the nearest port for embarkation on the recently-struck boat lines, with food for the journey to be transported by the train. The strike has caused loss of pay in the hundreds of thousands, loss of revenue to management and has cost the GLADES FARMERS untold dollars in circumventing the STOP-PAGE OF FREIGHT EXPORT. Many have become intimate with the heretofore-little-known plant of LAKE HARBOR, FLA.

UNCLE DAN from DOOLIE says:

Dear Mister Editor:

Most of the time the sessions at the county store goes as long as smooth as froh hair, but Saturday night they was a difference of opinion at the meeting. Everything was in good hum- or and nobody was mad, but some of the fellers was taking sides, Democrat and Republi- can.

Ed Doolie come in all riled up on account of him having to pay 5 cent for a stamp to get his income tax report mailed. Ed don't buy but one stamp a year and that's when he has to get his annual masterpiece off to the Internal Revenue Department.

In the first place, allowed Ed, he was 100 percent unimpressed when the Democrats come up with this idea back under Truman of making farmers mail off their report in February ahead of everybody else. In the second place, claimed Ed—who has always voted the straight Republican ticket—this 5-cent stamp is a good example of what the Democrats is doing to this country.

Furthermore, announced Ed,

Democrats is the enchanments and inventors of high taxes and the ever-balanced budget. He told the fellers that Kennedy was the best President this country has ever had, since John F. Kennedy, and that "nobody" can afford to let cheap money, then anybody else said Julian Caesar.

And Ed allowed that up to Kennedy, politicians was content just to get their feet in the public trough but now they has got to laying down longways in the thing.

Clem Webster, who started voting Democrat back under Woodrow Wilson, said he would have to take issue with Ed on a number of items.

First off, said Clem, he was of the opinion that Ed was sending that chicken scratching of his to the wrong place. He ought to mail it to the Poultry Department and let the Department of Agriculture check it. In the second place, Clem claimed, Ed ain't never filed a report that didn't show a net loss on the year and it would be hard for Ed to tell if taxes was high or low or the budget over-balanced or under-balanced.

In the third place, argued Clem, Ed enlarged that public trough so big that a politician had to lay in it longways to keep from falling out. And furthermore, Clem said Ed couldn't save that one cent on his annual stamp by mailing in his chicken scratching afore the price went up on January 7. He accused Ed of being careless in the matter of handing his annual stamp mailing.

Personal, Mister Editor, I didn't get in the argument on account of noting for 50 year that the best political party, Democrat or Republican, was always the one out of office.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Glades Area

Last week marked the beginning of the Sweet Corn Marketing Agreement and Order under the Florida Celer and Sweet Corn Marketing Law. Hereafter, growers have been allowed only the advertising portion of this Act in an area consisting of Hendry, Glades and the Western portion of Palm Beach County. Now the order covers the Southern portion of the State, Sarasota, DeSota Highlands, Okeechobee and St. Lucie, and all counties south of these counties.

The Marketing Order was issued by the Commissioner of Agriculture of the State of Florida and will be administered by him with the help of the Florida Sweet Corn Advisory Committee elected by and only by the producers of sweet corn. The committee, in order to represent all sweet corn producing areas equally according to the volume, is divided into two groups, one group comprising the Everglades District of Palm Beach County which will have nine members and the second group, made up of all other producers of the member.

Last Thursday, growers from the production areas met in Pahokee to elect their Committee Members and Alternates. The nine members elected from the Everglades District were Jim Colbert, Roy Vandegrift, Sr., J. Ray Hatton, Fritz Stein, Lewis Friend, Bob Apelgren, Billy Jones, Luke Fraser and George Wedgworth. The nine alternates elected were: Roy Vandegrift, Jr., Joe Hatton, Sr. James Harry Wilkinson, Walter Kautz, Sam Knight, Harold Rubin, C. A. Thomas, H. J. Anderson and E. A. McCabe. The alternates were paired with the members and will act only in the absence of the member.

Soon will be time to take care of some of the problems that attack our door yard citrus plants. We have mentioned before the need for a nutritional spray on our shrubs and fruit trees. Now we would like to talk about another problem on our fruit trees, the problem of Scab. It gets its name from the lesion it produces on the leaves and fruit. The Scab, we have on our citrus trees, is a fungus disease that attacks young leaves, small fruit and tender twigs of grapefruit, Temple, Marcott honey orange, Jensen, sour orange, Satsumas and some varieties of tangelos. It is a serious problem on young trees where it causes raised, light brown, corky areas on fruit and leaves. This fungus can be controlled with two copper sprays using a neutral copper as directed on the container label. The first should be applied just before growth starts in the spring, and the second when two-thirds of the white petals have fallen from the bloom. If you are going to put on only one spray, it should be the later application when the young fruits are forming. This fungus does not hurt the internal quality of the fruit but it sure gives it an unsightly appearance.

Your County Agent's office has a number of bulletins for distribution to the general public on a variety of subjects at no cost. All we ask is that you come by and pick them up or, if you wish, call us on the telephone and we will mail them to you. To mention a few, Bulletin 166B, "Citrus Fruits for the Doorway," covers the general cultivation and fertilization of citrus fruit trees in your yard and Circular 139A, "Control of Scab and Diseases of Door Yard Citrus Trees." If you are interested in receiving a copy of either of the publications come by to the office or give us a ring on the phone. We are as close to you as your telephone to help you with your problems.

Your Library

"The wise reader makes an art of skipping judiciously through the books that stare at him from shelf and book stall. How else is he to make intelligent use of the time? There are three that deserve more than a single fleeting glance. Each is by a woman, each is an autobiography, and each has something to say. Rare combination!"

Dust in the Lion's Paw, Stark.

A fast-paced recital, this autobiography of the years 1939-1949 sometimes raises piquettes of indignation, and prompts the question, "What manner of woman is this, to write as she does?" Frank, and keen to voice opinion, she has had a world of experience to draw upon for both the frankness and opinion, as she tells of her ventures in the Arab world, Indian, and America as a special agent for the British government during World War II. Her unique talents include a facility for languages, and intimate knowledge of the Eastern cultures, both put to use as ammunition against Nazi propaganda. Of special interest are the chapters on her U. S. lecture tour, during which she explained and defended the British position on the Middle East. The dainty-shod toes of Claire Booth Luce are not the only American toes on which she treads with her remarkable display of words—caustic, on occasion, but delectably British.

The Autobiography of Eleanor Roosevelt

This is less a review than an announcement of a book-of-the-month selection now available on our library shelves. Most of Eleanor Roosevelt's adult life was an open book; as wife and widow she had no privacy. Her earlier books of memoirs (three) were abbreviated and augmented into 454 absorbing pages, which close with the words, "But, I suppose, I must slow down." This unique personal history will fill in the detail for those who lived through the Roosevelt era, and for the younger generation who know the outline, but missed some of the flavor. Political leanings and prejudices keep few from admitting that there was a great lady. The Lonely Life, Davis

Bette Davis had to write The Lonely Life, herself, because the shades of her New England forebears would never have permitted a ghost. For those who read the recent condensation of the book in a leading women's magazine, here is an opportunity to read the whole. It is by no means, even appealing, revelation by a queen among actresses, in which she admits that she should never have married at all. The roles she played, the enemies she made, are all discussed candidly and intelligently. The most touching detail in the whole book is the dedication page, addressed to her mother, Ruthie, who died in 1901.

Letters to the Editor

"He who rides on the back of a tiger will soon find himself ending up on the inside."

The above is an excerpt from the inaugural speech of John F. Kennedy. Mr. Kennedy was no doubt referring to neutral nations who continue to enact upon the philosophy of playing both sides against the middle and the middle against both sides... in hope of reaping the proverbial bounty for themselves and leaving the catastrophic consequences for those who are supposedly less fortunate.

A similar situation exists right here in Belle Glade. Last week on one side of the Hillsboro canal a Revival took place. It advocated, among other things, integrity, equality, love, sincerity, respectability, courage and the brotherhood of man.

The other side of the canal contains an opposite example for the youth of this city to follow. It is regrettably unfortunate that aforementioned terminology is insufficient to describe this situation, for it is; lascivious rapacious, redundant and utterly ridiculous. Recently, a local member of this community, while being detained in the city jail awaiting adequate bond, overheard conversations between police officers which in effect dealt with who was the most proficient in the illegal extraction of funds. Officers of this organization or members of our sister city's police Department, South Bay. When representatives of a law enforcement agency openly brag about graft, exploitation and related activities around the citizenry with no regard for secrecy, then it is quite apparent, to say the least, that something is awry with local leadership.

The paths to the future are becoming more and more out of proportion when compared to the prescribed goals that they are supposed to lead to. Give us a method to move with, lead us one way or the other, but remember while you are on the journey that: "He who rides on the back of a tiger will soon find himself ending up on the inside."

Lawrence E. Will Talks On "The Seminoles"

Lawrence E. Will, local historian, recently addressed three separate classes of fourth grade pupils in West Palm Beach's Meadow Park School. Speaking on the Seminoles, he traced the migration of these people during the Seminole War to Lake Okechobee and the Big Cypress Swamp, described their customs and related experiences from his observations of them some fifty years ago.

The Seminoles, he explained, were remnants of two once powerful tribes from Georgia and Alabama, the Greeks, an agricultural people who had farms and cattle and lived in houses, and the Mikasukees, hunters and warriors and fanatic enemies of the Whites. These Indians, driven from their homes by the pressure of white settlers, retreated southward, finally arriving at Lake Okechobee, where during that territory's rule by Spain, they were not molested. However, when the United States took possession they were again harassed by White settlers. This, together with a federal law which required that all Indians be removed to west of the Mississippi River, brought on the Seminole War. Stubbornly resisting, the Seminoles where a battle was fought near Taylor Creek. After this battle the Mikasukees, under Chief Abieka or Sam Jones, fled to near Ft. Lauderdale where many were captured and a battle was fought on Pine Island at Davie. The remainder managed to cross the Everglades and took refuge in the Big Cypress Swamp, where their descendants live today.

Following the battle on the lake, the Creek band, after a lively skirmish at Loxahatchee River, were nearly all captured at Ft. Jupiter. They had come to Gen. Jessup to beg for a respite from their camp and were no longer to be molested. He succeeded in getting them all drunk, surrounded their camp and shipped them west. A remnant of this band which escaped capture were hemmed in on three sides by troops and on the fourth side by the Everglades, in the barren country between Lake Okechobee and Jupiter (the Pratt-Whitney area), where they hearily started to die. This section is known even today as Hungry Land. The fugitives however, remained in this general territory and around Lake Wales, later establishing their camps at Indian Town. Their descendants are now living in the Brighton Reservation. One of these, the well known Billy Bowlegs III, whose grand mother was present at the battle of Okechobee, and who is now one hundred years of age, still lives alone in his camp 3 miles from a neighbor, and sleeps in his open thatched chickee. Similarly, most of the older Seminoles still cling to the ancient ways, though the younger ones often live in modern bungalows, own their herds of cattle and send their children to the public schools.

Will described the Seminoles' way of life in their camps and on their hunting trips into the Glades in the old days. Often times a hunter would spend the night at Will's camp at Okechobee on their gator hunts in the sawgrass or on their way to Ft. Lauderdale to market their hides and other skins. He recalled that their bright hued, striped tunics were invariably clean, and the Indians always spoke in a low tone, almost a whisper. Whereas a White neighbor might tell her rambunctious youngsters "You shout like wild Indians," a Seminole mother might admonish her "pikanihays" (children) "be quiet like a White child!"

The Seminoles used to be notorious for their honesty, lying or stealing being rigorously punished. Their court trials were held and judgments rendered at Green Corn Dance, held each June. At this religious festival all tribal matters were considered, marriages and divorces approved and certain of the brightest boys were selected for trials before undergoing the years of training to become a medicine man. Punishments took various forms, one being the requirement to wear a white shirt instead of the striped tunic. Another was to trim off part of a man's ears, as exemplified by Pop Rared Charley, once a familiar sight around Ft. Lauderdale. For a murder a man might be instructed to be at a certain place and time, where he would be met by his executioner.

Also explained were the Seminoles' burial customs. Will told of an incident in which a young Indian, Stranahan Okeola, who while hunting in the Everglades near Andytown, accidentally shot himself and bled to death. His hokete (squaw) soled their dugout 22 miles to Ft. Lauderdale to notify his cousin Tony Tommy (Atanavee), the only Indian who had been to school and the first to wear pants and shoes. With a deputy sheriff, Tony and the woman returned up the canal and into the sawgrass where Okeola lay. The dead man's dog, however, refused to let them approach. Tony got around that difficulty by shedding his shoes and trousers. He then looked and smiled like an Indian, so the faithful dog relented. Meanwhile, the widow squatted down, removed all her rings and ten or fifteen rounds of beads from around her neck, loosened her hair and trudged back to the boat. The Seminoles customarily buried their dead on top of the ground, first wrapping the body in a blanket lashed and knotted with many feet of rope, then covering it with palmetto fans. His gun and utensils were placed alongside, the rifle being broken and the cooking pot smashed, for they also must be "killed." The museum was a sort of tent of poles and sticks well driven into the ground.

The talk was attended by the speaker, waving a simulated corn stalk, gave an imitation of the Corn Dance. At the students' request he taught them to say "How Do You Do?" in both the Creek and Mikasukee languages and how to count in Creek. In closing he gave the Seminoles' concept of the White race, "Eata haakee ho-wa-guag, Loxee ojus!" "White man no good. He lies too much!"

You can tell this '63 on sight—even at night!

For years now, Pontiac has been the easiest car to pick out in a crowd. And the '63's are no exception. At night, with the highway driving beam on, Pontiac identifies itself by its unique over-and-under headlight arrangement.

It's more than just a nice styling touch—the headlights aim better this way. By day, of course, a new bold linear grille design sets Pontiac beautifully apart from the which-car-is-which problem. Another way you can tell the '63 Pontiac is by looking at the drivers. They're the ones who are smiling. Say—maybe you'd better see your dealer about that. He's smiling about Pontiac too. Wide-Track Pontiac.

CHEVROLET TRUCK QUALITY

You can see the difference wherever you look

If you believe various makes of trucks are pretty much alike, you aren't doing justice to your pocketbook. There are differences. A Chevrolet truck welcomes comparison. Look at the little things on it—latches, hinges, stitching in the upholstery. Notice how strong the tailgate is, the rubber encased chains that keep it from sagging. The body floor is made of select wood to eliminate the rust problem and give you better footing. The lower side panels are double-walled; you might dent the inside but it won't show through. Chevrolet designs suspension systems to fit your load. The light-duty type is strong on comfort, another kind for heavier trucks stiffens as you increase your load and vice versa. Make sense? If you are going to need a new truck this year, you should look at the quality Chevrolet has to offer. May we bring over a new '63 so you can examine it?

St. John's Episcopal Church Observed National Boy Scout Week

In special observance of National Boy Scout week, Feb. 7, through 13, all of the acolytes served in full uniform last Sunday at St. John's Episcopal Church, and the adult members of Boy Scout Troop 601 were acknowledged.

An article from the church bulletin by Father Lossing very aptly expresses the importance of the Scouting movement in religion as well as civic life.

Boy Scouts of America. Old values that are seen all too seldom on the current scene, such as structure, authority, responsibility, discipline, within which man's freedom can truly flourish, these are a part of the Boy Scout's training and activity. We recommend this good work to your prayers and participation!
